Obtaining funding for your business requires research, planning and clear explanation of your business model in order to qualify for loans, grants and other forms of financial assistance. Typically, for-profit businesses are funded through a commercial loan financed by a lender or out-of-pocket by business owner(s). Alternative sources of finance, such as small business grants, may be a helpful supplement for funding your businesses.

Among the small business grants out there, some are open to one specific group of business owners. Often, they are geared toward those who face larger financial and social challenges gaining their footing in the business world, such as women and minorities. Some grant funders also seek to award businesses with a social or environmental value proposition. Overall, grants have specific eligibility requirements and, depending on the number of applicants and number of grants awarded, can be quite competitive.

Deciding which grant to apply for is your responsibility but be aware of scammers. Never pay grantors for access to a small business grant opportunity.

Lastly, connect with us! We hope this guide is useful in your search for funding. Federal Grants

Grants.gov

You can search for grants free, however, in order to apply for federal grants you will need to do these three things first – all are FREE:

1. Obtain a free Unique Entity ID for your business:
<https://sam.gov/content/entity-registration>
2. Register with the US Government System for Award Management (SAM):
<https://sam.gov/content/home>
3. Set up an account at Grants.gov

Yes, there's an app for that too!

Grants.gov recently launched a mobile app. Check out this video on how to search for business grants on your cell phone.

United States Department of Agriculture
